Was next president chosen at Bilderberg 2017?

By Mark Anderson

Unprincipled political ladder-climbers lucky enough to get the coveted “Bilderberg boost” tend to clear any remaining hurdles between them and high office.

Take Bill Clinton, whose attendance at the 1991 Bilderberg meeting in Baden-Baden, Germany “coincidentally” presaged “Slick Willie”—already tainted from a string of apparent crimes and scandals as Arkansas’s governor—still managing against all odds to clinch the presidency. He became one of the most scandal-ridden national leaders in U.S. history, starting in 1992.

For two terms, the American people were saddled with everything from Chinagate, to the Monica Lewinsky White House sex scandal, to a resulting Clinton impeachment, to the strange July 1993 death of longtime friend of the Clintons and White House deputy counsel Vince Foster, found dead at a Virginia federal park in what honest probes showed to be a staged “suicide.”

But is another “Clintonista” regime in the making? Consider Virginia governor and Clinton pal Terry McAuliffe (D) and his attendance at the 2017 Bilderberg meeting in Chantilly, Va.

A longtime friend of the Clintons, McAuliffe broke bread with the Bilderbergers for the first time June 1-4. Within a few days, he caught the nation off guard when he floated the idea that he would like to seek the 2020 presidency—at an eerily early juncture only seven months into President Donald Trump’s first term.

Gov. McAuliffe’s attendance at Bilderberg has led some to believe he may be on the global elite’s radar.

Call it mere chance, but on June 5, the day after Bilderberg concluded, McAuliffe also announced that Virginia and 12 other states “have formed an alliance to move forward on the principles of the Paris Climate Agreement, despite Trump’s decision to withdraw the federal government from the accord,” according to a news release from the governor’s office.

The Bilderberg cabal champions the “climate change” agenda since it helps monopolize natural resources management and brings forth untold billions in profits.

The Washington journal Politico noted: “McAuliffe still talks to Bill Clinton every day, sometimes several times a day. They’ve talked in passing about a White House run. The former president has said he’s supportive of whatever his friend does.”

“I’m trying to run a progressive state, putting progressive values out there. At the same time, making sure

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM THE EXECUTIVE EDITOR

REMEMBERING VICTOR THORN

August 1 marks the one-year anniversary of the death of Victor Thorn, the prolific author, radio show host, publisher, and tireless researcher of the Clinton family's crimes. To this day, Victor's passing remains a huge loss not just for AFP but for the patriot community as a whole.

Over the course of his career spanning three decades, Victor wrote on just about every subject that we can think of. From health issues to immigration to the Sept. 11 attacks to general conspiracies to war to Bill and Hillary Clinton, he touched on the most important subjects of the day with his trademark insight and wit that no one on this Earth will ever be able to duplicate. When it was all said and done, he had penned some 60 books along with several thousand articles. AFP published many of his books and his articles, and, to this day, we along with his family are doing everything we can to keep his legacy alive.

The point of this brief memorial to Victor is to focus on his accomplishments rather than any controversy surrounding his life, but it's worth taking a moment to address all of the speculation concerning the circumstances of his passing.

His family and close friends remain adamant that Victor took his own life the morning of his 54th birthday. Given that Victor's work focused on the Clintons and their numerous scandals, it's understandable that people believe he must have been "suicided." We have relied on our contacts to keep us updated on any news related to Victor's death, but so far we have seen nothing to indicate anything other than that he took his own life.

Ultimately, we believe that Victor's legacy will be defined by the books and articles he has written over the years. That being said, please take a moment to check out pages 22-23 for a complete listing of all of Victor's books that we have to offer. Also, we still have copies of the three-volume definitive work of Victor's writing for AFP, titled THORN.

News You May Have Missed

Good Fences

President Donald Trump is pushing ahead with his promise to build a wall along the southern border. The first stretch will be built in the Santa Ana Wildlife Refuge in Texas. According to the Los Angeles Times, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers recently drilled soil samples at the Rio Grande refuge in preparation for building three miles of concrete levee wall and fence. As the saying goes, a journey of 1,000 miles starts with a single step. Environmentalists are already protesting that the wall will interfere with the movements of local wildlife.

No More Arming Rebels

Commentary website “Antiwar.com” reports that President Donald Trump has decided to end the CIA program to arm Syria’s rebel and terrorist factions. For years much of the weaponry has been finding its way into the hands of radical groups, which Uncle Sam claims to oppose. But making matters worse, the rebel factions the U.S. taxpayer has been supporting have increasingly been less interested in fighting either the Syrian government or ISIS and more interested in fighting one another. The mockingbird media, crazed with Russophobia, never mentions the atrocities committed by the “moderate” rebels. The Middle East is a can of worms, and the more Uncle Sam meddles there, the worse it gets.

Billion-Dollar Glitch

Billions of dollars in student loans may be uncollectible, says G. Edward Griffin. It seems the National Collegiate Student Loan Trust (NCSLT), which holds 800,000 loans and is one of the country’s largest owners of private student loans, has—somehow—managed to misplace the paperwork proving it owns $5 billion in student debt. NCSLT isn’t a lender or guarantor of loans. It’s a series of trusts that contain student loans sold as investment vehicles. Due to the confusing ways in which these trusts work, there’s doubt as to whether anyone can prove where your loan is. NCSLT has brought more than 800 lawsuits against borrowers this year alone—and usually wins, but only because the ex-students choose to settle or don’t show up in court.

SEN. PAUL RYAN

Ryan’s Ratings Plummet

House Speaker Paul Ryan’s failure to deliver on President Donald Trump’s populist agenda has sent his approval rating into a tailspin as nearly a majority of Americans disapprove of his job performance, a new Bloomberg National Poll shows. A whopping 48% view Ryan in a negative light, while just 36% view him positively. The poll was conducted from July 8 to July 12 and represents a near mirror flip from Ryan’s standing in December when 47% looked at him positively and 31% viewed him negatively.

North Korean Missile a Joke

You’ve doubtless heard how those “Korean commies” have been test-launching intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs). Well, maybe they haven’t. The danger has been overrated by the panic spreaders. After the test, Pentagon officials chimed in, saying there is no evidence the rocket had any guidance system, so it couldn’t be steered. All North Korea achieved was to make a short-range unguided missile travel farther.

Mexican Murder Spiral

June 2017 was the deadliest month in Mexico in 20 years or more, government data show. The country racked up a recorded 2,234 murders in June, and it’s no fluke—for the first six months of 2017 authorities conducted 12,155 homicide investigations, 31% more than during the same period last year. The real numbers may be significantly higher, as government agents recently found two drug-cartel training camps in the state of Jalisco, where an unknown number of human remains were found.

Pistol-Packing Drivers

Only a few U.S. states instruct drivers on what to expect during a traffic stop. Arizona is one of them. Now the gun-friendly state is revising those instructions to tell armed drivers how to handle a stop—this in the wake of the slaying of Minnesota citizen Philando Castile in 2016 after he told an officer he was armed. Arizona State Rep. Reginald Bolding was motivated to change the driver manual, because Arizona doesn’t require gun permits, and some gun owners have not been trained in handling a firearm. The new edition of the manual tells drivers with guns to keep their hands on the steering wheel and tell the cop right away that there is a gun in the car. The new rule book fails to state that people have a right to refuse an officer’s request to search a vehicle.

Moon Mining

News and technology website “Gizmodo” reports that a secretive company says it may be mining on the Moon by 2020. Private “space company” Moon Express stepped out of the shadows to talk about its ambitious goals. It plans to send a series of missions to the Moon over the next few years; by the end of 2017, an MX-1 spacecraft is to be launched aboard Rocket Lab’s Electron vehicle, with subsequent missions planned for 2019 and 2020—by which time the company hopes to start returning lunar samples to Earth. They’ll be looking for iron ore, precious metals, and ice.

Sex Assaults

A German folk festival was rocked in mid-July by riots and a number of sexual assaults by men police describe as “coming from migration backgrounds.” In one night, police arrested three 17-year-old supposed asylum seekers from Afghanistan, who were accused of sexually assaulting several women at the festival. On another night, several more sex attacks were reported, both at the festival and in nearby fields, with one Iraqi man identified as a suspect. On the final night of the festival, police reported that around 1,000 young people gathered in the town center, where they rioted and rampaged. German news agency Die Welt reported that 50% of the rioters came from the Middle East, Asia, and Africa.

Longstocking a Racist?

A Swedish council has finally conceded that local libraries have been throwing out copies of a popular children’s book because it contains supposed racist expressions, with one local journalist even saying the books are being burned. Older versions of the Pippi Langstrumpf, or “Pippi Longstocking,” book entitled Pippi in the South Seas have been tossed by libraries in the Botkyrka municipality. The new edition of the book has replaced the phrase “king of the Negroes” or “Negro king” with “king of the South Seas” or “South Sea king.”

Catholic Websites Targeted

According to the Catholic News Agency, in early July, social media giant Facebook blocked more than two dozen conservative Catholic pages, some with millions of followers, saying only they were “suspected of suspicious activities.” Facebook apparently targeted only those conservative Catholic pages with a significant following, since almost all had between hundreds of thousands and six million followers. One of the blocked pages belonged to Catholic priest Fr. Francis J. Hoffman, who is executive director of “Relevant Radio.” A Facebook page called “Catholic and Proud,” an enormously popular page with six million followers, was also shut down.

FR. FRANCIS HOFFMAN

Clinton Researcher Found Dead

• 81-year-old Peter W. Smith commits suicide in midst of Hillary investigation

By Mark Anderson

Considering the sordid history of political intrigue and foul play surrounding Hillary and Bill Clinton, the rather mysterious death in Rochester, Minn. of a longtime investigator of the Clintons isn't generating anything close to the level of public interest it deserves.

What's worse is that national TV-media outlets evidently are blacking out news about investigator Peter W. Smith's "suicide" and how and why he died in mid-May.

This broadcast-news suppression is even harder to explain when you consider that several sizable newspapers and social media have to some extent covered Smith's apparent "suicide." Yet, the national TV networks did not run with the story, even as they obsess nonstop over flimsy Trump-Russia "collusion" allegations.

The Wall Street Journal, to its credit, took the lead in publishing reports on Smith's research on Hillary, having interviewed Smith just 10 days before he was found dead. Smith left an apparent suicide note, stating that he took his own life due to ill health at age 81. Smith allegedly went to Rochester to visit the famous Mayo Clinic.

The official explanation: In the Aspen Suites Hotel in Rochester, Minn. on May 14, Smith did himself in by putting a plastic bag around his head and pumping the bag full of helium from a propane-style tank, to displace the oxygen and asphyxiate himself. At least that's what police, a funeral home employee, and some mainstream newspapers, including the Chicago Tribune, have reported.

In the note that police say they found, Smith reportedly "apologized to authorities and wrote [in all capital letters] that 'no foul play whatsoever' was involved in his death. He also wrote that he was taking his own life because of a 'recent bad turn in health since January 2017' and timing related to 'life insurance of $5 million expiring.'" Those lines were also written in all capital letters.

PROBED BOTH CLINTONS

Smith's investigations of the Clintons covered a long time period—back to Bill Clinton's "Trooper-gate" sexual-scandal days as Arkansas governor and during the Clinton White House and its countless collusions, including Chinagate.

Chinagate saw well-connected Chinese businessmen enter the White House dozens of times to make financial arrangements—dare it be called bribery—for obtaining U.S. military missile-guidance technology for Chinese companies through Clinton, among other things that dwarf anything that President Donald Trump is even being accused of.

But Smith's latest project involved looking into

Ten days before Smith died, he conducted an interview with a reporter on his Hillary research.

Hillary's emails from her time as secretary of state from 2009-2013. He had been poking around lately to get more information on over 30,000 emails that Hillary claimed she deleted simply because they contained personal matters.

What really matters here is what Hillary's emails contain, not who hacked them. Hillary's emails likely contain information exposing how much money foreign officials have donated to the Clinton Foundation, and whether or not future favors from the then-secretary of state, her office or the foundation were part of the bargain.

CHICAGO MACHINE

The Tribune is among the relatively few newspapers that has sustained the probe into Smith's research and seemingly sudden suicide, although, in so doing, this formerly intrepid newspaper, once operated by legendary anti-war conservative Col. Robert R. McCormick, appears prone to giving Chicago native Hillary Clinton a free pass.

Former President Barack Obama was incubated in the same Chicago political machine from which Hillary ascended—and where former Obama White House Chief of Staff Rahm Emmanuel serves as mayor. And there have been rumblings that Hillary may run for mayor.

The Tribune said it "obtained a Minnesota state death record filed in Olmsted County, saying Smith committed suicide in a hotel near the Mayo Clinic at 1:17 p.m. on Sunday, May 14." An autopsy was carried out, but the Southern Minnesota Regional Medical Examiner's Office declined a Tribune request for the autopsy report and released limited information about Smith's death.

A spokeswoman for AXA Equitable Life Insurance Co., listed in recovered documents as Smith's insurance carrier, "had no immediate comment," the Tribune also noted.

By not releasing the autopsy report, the coroner has made it harder for researchers to make an assessment of what happened to Smith independent of Minnesota authorities. Making matters worse, Smith's body was cremated.

Rochester Police Chief Roger Peterson did describe Smith's death as "unusual." A Rochester Cremation Services employee, from the funeral home that responded to the hotel, said "he'd seen it before" and apparently confirmed the report by saying that he saw a tank in the room.

PETER W. SMITH

Ten days after speaking to The Wall Street Journal about computer hacking and his attempts to find out what was contained in Hillary Clinton's missing 30,000 emails, Peter W. Smith allegedly killed himself.

"The employee, who spoke on condition he not be identified because of the sensitive nature of Smith's death, described the tank as being similar in size to a propane tank on a gas grill. He did not recall seeing a bag that Smith would have placed over his head. He said the coroner and police were there and that he 'didn't do a lot of looking around,'" the Tribune noted.

Police said they found a receipt from a local Walmart "time-stamped from the previous day, May 13 at 12:53 p.m." which indicated the purchase of "Helium Jumbo" tanks and other items. Yet, because police, perhaps naively, feel that no foul play occurred, they apparently have not bothered to access Walmart security videos to see if Smith himself bought the tanks in the first place.

Finally, police said that the two helium tanks in the room were draped with vinyl-covered ankle or wrist weights, the kind used for exercise.

"The report did not offer an explanation for the weights," the Tribune added. ★

Stay Sharp with European-Made B12

Carotec's B12 is European made methylcobalamin, an active coenzyme form of vitamin B12, which is essential for cell growth and replication. Methylcobalamin is more concentrated than other forms of B12 in the cerebrospinal fluid where it can be used by the central nervous system. It donates methyl groups to the myelin sheath that insulates certain nerve fibers. It may also play a role in maintaining a healthy sleep-wake cycle, as well as normal nerve function as well as help keep homocysteine levels in check. Methylcobalamin also protects eye function against toxicity caused by excess glutamate. Vegetarians may lack B12.

Will Congress Criminalize Free Speech?

- Lapdog Congress working to prevent Americans from supporting boycotts targeting Israel
- Israel Anti-Boycott Act says supporters of “BDS” can be slapped with huge fines, imprisonment

By Ronald L. Ray

More than half of Congress favors racism, terrorism, genocide, and rogue possession of nuclear weapons. They are so devoted to these things that they want to impose draconian punishments on those who boycott or ask others to boycott a country guilty of all of them. But no, we do not mean North Korea. Rather, the Washington sycophants want to turn free speech into a felony, if it is directed against the world’s most whining, war-mongering bully, Israel.

To date, 46 senators and 245 representatives from both major political parties have cosponsored the Israel Anti-Boycott Act (IABA, S. 720/H.R. 1697), written by the American Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC), which would impose more extreme civil and now criminal penalties on any person or entity that would request, advocate, or engage in a boycott of—or even “restrictive trade practices” against—Israel. Congress previously and unconstitutionally outlawed boycotts of Israeli goods and services and wants to multiply its subservient violations of the U.S. Constitution for its tinpot overlords in the Middle East.

The bill would additionally amend the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 by adding “policies and actions that are politically motivated and are intended to penalize or otherwise limit commercial relations specifically with citizens or residents of Israel, entities organized under the laws of Israel, or the Government of Israel,” immediately after “child labor” in the list of no-no’s.

S. 720 and H.R. 1697 target in particular trade restrictions or boycotts sponsored by a foreign country, the UN or European Union. They also give lip service to similar activities aimed at any “other countries friendly to the United States or against any United States person,” but the title and text of the bills make clear the real intent of protecting Israeli—and not truly American—interests.

The outrageous treason of the sponsors and cosponsors of the legislation is manifest. Just consider how American citizens would react if instead the bill were the “North Korea Anti-Boycott Act” or protected Russia, France, Guatemala or Somalia, for that matter. Israelis comprise less than 0.1% of the world’s population, yet their interests supersede those of American citizens in the minds of the Zionist Occupation Government’s congressional lapdogs.

When Boycott-Divestment-Sanctions (BDS) was a tactic used against the government of South Africa and its policy of racial apartheid, Israel and the Zionist lobby were either silent or raucous supporters. But now that the same peaceful tactics are turned against the apartheid, Jewish-suprema-

According to the ACLU, “The [Israel Anti-Boycott Act] would amend existing law to prohibit people in the United States from supporting boycotts targeting Israel—making it a felony to choose not to engage in commerce with companies doing business in Israel and its settlements in the occupied Palestinian territories. Violations would be punishable by a civil penalty that could reach $250,000 and a maximum criminal penalty of $1 million and 20 years in prison.” Above, supporters of the BDS movement gather in Washington, D.C.

cist state of Israel to protest its ongoing genocide of Palestine’s native Arabs, screams of outrage come from the Israeli government and its Zionist cohorts in Congress and across the U.S. Suddenly, BDS is now “terrorism.”

The IABA takes pro-Zionist extremism to a new depth, however, because violation of its strictures would be punished under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.). Offenders would be subject to a maximum civil fine of $250,000 and criminal penalties up to $1,000,000 and 20 years in prison. That is unconstitutional “cruel and unusual punishment” for engaging in peaceful political protest.

Does the principal Senate sponsor of this insane, anti-free-speech legislation, Sen. Benjamin Cardin (D-Md.), have dual Israeli-American citizenship? The principal—and hypocritical—House sponsor, Rep. Peter J. Roskam (R-Ill.), is a strong pro-life presence in Congress, but he clearly hates defenders of the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness for Palestinians. Even many congressional civil liberties proponents are backing the dictatorial IABA, according to the website “The Intercept.”

Roskam is an extreme Zionist toady, who on July 20 openly criticized the U.S. State Department for telling the truth about Israel’s responsibility for Palestinian “terrorism” and Israeli obstruction of regional peace.

But only crickets are heard in the halls of Congress regarding the presence of a foreign army on U.S. soil attempting to impose its country’s interests on Americans. Groups of Israel Defense Forces reservists, calling themselves “Reservists on Duty,” have begun infiltrating American college campuses, attempting to subvert and radicalize Jewish U.S. citizens in favor of Israel over the United States, while agitating aggressively against Palestinians and those peacefully defending the cause of Palestinian freedom, particularly those in the BDS movement.

The IABA is so noxious that it has split even U.S. Jews. The Jewish-dominated American Civil Liberties Union strongly opposes the legislation, detailing in a powerful letter the bills’ gross violations of First Amendment free speech rights. The ACLU notes the unconstitutionality of outlawing peaceful political boycotts was established by the U.S. Supreme Court in NAACP v. Claiborne Hardware Co. (458 U.S. 886, 912-15 [1982]).

While it is rare that we agree with the “Anti-Christian Lawyers Union,” we commend them on this issue. The United States should not follow down the totalitarian path of multiple European countries that imprison BDS proponents, nor should it tolerate the growing, unconstitutional juggernaut of the several states to outlaw BDS activities.

The tiny but powerful Zionist lobby has for decades been overweening in its subversion and nearly absolute control of America’s domestic and foreign policy. Tell Congress and the president to throw off the shackles of their Zionist taskmasters, to oppose the IABA, and to put America first. ★

Trump & Putin Strike Peace Accord

• Israeli prime minister threatens to undermine peace by attacking Iranian forces

YASIN AKGUL/AFP/GETTY IMAGES

By Richard Walker

Vladimir Putin and Donald Trump believe they have a solution to the Syrian civil war despite getting the thumbs-down from Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu.

Israel's leader has publicly voiced his opposition to a ceasefire that Trump, Putin, and Jordanian leader Prince Abdullah put in place in southwest Syria on July 9 in an area that borders Jordan and Israel.

Not unexpectedly, Netanyahu and his far-right leadership believe the plan, which removed Iranian and Hezbollah fighters from the ceasefire zone, doesn't go far enough in curbing Iran's role in Syria where its militias have backed Russian and Syrian government forces in their fight against Islamic radicals, including ISIS.

Israel wants to see Iran's influence in Syria ended and has been threatening to take action if Washington does not ensure that once Raqqa falls and ISIS is defeated Iranians are ordered immediately out of Syria.

A Russian diplomatic source this reporter spoke to on condition of anonymity revealed that Netanyahu had phoned Trump and Putin, conveying to them that when ISIS is defeated, Iran and Hezbollah must not be allowed to keep forces in Syria. Otherwise, Israel will confront them militarily.

While the source did not know how Trump responded, he confirmed that Putin told Netanyahu that he and Trump believed Iran had to be part of the solution in Syria. It was a riposte that did not go down well in Tel Aviv.

It was followed by a blunt statement from Konstantin Kosachev, a top parliamentary figure in Moscow, who has the Kremlin's backing, that Israel's opposition to the ceasefire will not affect it. He confirmed that Israel was fixated with Iran and was worried that a solution driven by Moscow and Washington limited Israel's options for targeting the government of Bashar al-Assad.

Kosachev went further, stating that Russia held the view that Iran had to be part of the military and political solution in Syria.

That is a position opposed by not only Israel but also its backers on Capitol Hill, who will no doubt condemn the ceasefire deal with Russia that arose from private talks between Trump and Putin on the sidelines of the recent G20 summit.

Of course, there is no guarantee that, after six years and as many ceasefires, this one will be the solution. However, this time it's different. Russia is investing a lot to make it work, adding more military police and working in tandem with the U.S. military to monitor the ceasefire zone with joint drone surveillance. Both nations, working with Jordan, have established special corridors to pour relief and medical supplies into the region.

An Israeli media campaign has begun to denounce the Trump-Putin effort by claiming it will not prevent Iran ultimately establishing what Israeli pundits are calling a "land bridge" stretching from Iran through Iraq to Syria to fulfil an Iranian scheme to create a Shiite "crescent." It would, claims Netanyahu, allow Iran to arm Hezbollah and place a permanent Iranian force in Syria.

A Shiite arc or crescent is language familiar to anyone who studied the Bush-Cheney era when they constantly warned that Iran had a grand plan to build a Shiite crescent stretching across the Middle East. Neocons stole the crescent concept from Sunni King Abdullah of Jordan and exploited the imagery, as many Israelis continue to do.

Israel has a vested interest in seeing Iran has no role in the Syrian crisis. Netanyahu and his cabinet would rather see Syria fall apart into partitioned zones than have a stable Syria with links to Iran. A broken Syria would allow Israel unfettered control of the Golan Heights bordering Syria and access to the massive energy reserves the area holds. Israel controls two-thirds of the Golan Heights, which international law has ruled is Syrian territory. At least one American company with neocons on its board has been granted permission to drill for oil and gas on land there.

Putin and Trump are confident that if they can secure a lasting ceasefire in southern Syria they will be able to work together to defeat ISIS and negotiate further ceasefires in other parts of the country between Assad's government forces and those radicals opposing him.

One of the great ironies is that the U.S., Jordan, Turkey, the Islamic Military Alliance to Fight Terrorism, and the Israelis have been the backers of the anti-Assad radicals they now hope will lay down their arms. In Syria, the past has shown that there are so many competing groups backed by the West that there is no guarantee some of them will want a peaceful solution. One thing that has been made clear, however, is that Trump and Putin can work together and Putin will not abandon his ally, Assad.

"There was much speculation in the West that Vladimir Putin would walk away from Assad and let Syria fall apart, but he has shown he will not do that," concluded the Russian diplomatic source. "He will not be swayed by vested interests in the region whether it's Israel or the Arab states led by the Saudis. He is convinced that Iran can play a useful role and he may have even convinced Donald Trump of that." ★

THE MOST DETAILED BOOK ON THE LIBERTY ATTACK EVER WRITTEN!

Book About Liberty Attack Going to the Big Screen

“The Zionist State of Israel put over 1,000 holes like this one (photo, right) and over 5,000 armor-piercing shells in my ship. If we didn’t get an SOS off, they would have surely sent all of us to the bottom. Worse than the massacre is the fact that the U.S. government has been hiding this truth for over 50 years, to protect Israel at the expense of my 34 slaughtered and almost 200 wounded crewmates. This is a national disgrace and the time is now to set this wrong right. Let’s tell the world the truth about that USS Liberty massacre. Please donate to the USS Liberty Film Project today.”

MOVIE!”

“My personal thanks to all who have bought the book and donated to the film project. This can’t happen without you!”
—Phil Tourney, USS Liberty survivor

The USS Liberty has been called the most decorated United States naval ship for a single action. But if this is true, why have so few Americans ever heard of the Liberty? The reasons are many, but have everything to do with who attacked the Liberty and who covered up the attack, an ongoing and disgraceful cover-up for over 50 years.

Though attempts have been, and continue to be, made, to bring the truth about the attack on the Liberty to a wider audience, those responsible for the attack and the cover-up have many resources available to keep this national tragedy buried.

And the most shocking part of this story, is that the country that attempted to sink the Liberty with all those aboard, Israel, on that beautiful, sunny day in the Eastern Mediterranean in June 1967, not only continues to erase the true history of what happened, but our own country, the United States of America, and those public officials sworn to uphold and defend the U.S. Constitution, initiated the cover-up and continue, to this very second, to dishonor those 34 men viciously slaughtered and the 174 wounded. These men are forced to live knowing their own country abandoned them on the altar of political expediency.

The cover-up has been so thorough that this is the only maritime attack in U.S. history not afforded a congressional investigation.

Based on the new book by Liberty survivor Phillip F. Start Building, Mr. President

• Time for Trump to get the wrecking ball rolling on crumbling infrastructure

MARK LYONS/GETTY IMAGES

By Mark Anderson

Relatively few members of Congress seem to understand that for the Republican-led Congress and President Donald J. Trump to maintain credibility with the American people, especially those who voted for Trump, a major infrastructure upgrade needs to happen—sooner rather than later.

Otherwise, another logjam, like that which arose during the health-insurance reform debate, will block success and give the fake-news media even more fodder with which to trounce Trump.

It turns out that Sen. Rand Paul (R-Ky.) was essentially correct in saying that a separate “clean repeal” of Obamacare would’ve been the best approach, in order to simplify things and buy time for properly formulating a worthy replacement bill.

Yet Paul also noted that the proposed “Trumpcare” replacement, trumpeted by pseudo-conservative Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.), among other constitutional counterfeits in Congress, was still too much like Obamacare in terms of taxes and regulations, while directing a torrent of tax dollars, crony-capitalism style, into the pockets of the multi-billion-dollar insurance industry.

But just as Congress members gummed up the works by trying to repeal Obamacare and replace it with another federal health-insurance scheme in one fell swoop, lawmakers, as of this July 22 writing, seem intent on first wanting to wrestle with something as complex as tax reform before delivering an infrastructure bill that Trump is itching to sign. Too many of the nation's bridges, highways, water and sewer systems, ports, and other public works and thoroughfares are crumbling, and it's time to act.

Donald Trump has a reputation as one of the greatest builders of the modern age. He has built luxury hotels, office buildings, resorts and more. The Trump Organization is one of the world's only global luxury real estate super-brands, and is responsible for famous real estate holdings the world over. Can he bring this vision for massive construction projects and apply it to America's current infrastructure problems?

At least Reps. Lou Barletta (R-Penn.) and James Inhofe (R-Okla.) get the picture. “I would love for us to move on to infrastructure,” Barletta was quoted as saying by The Hill, a Washington newspaper focused on Congress. “I think it could be an area where it'd be pretty difficult for Democrats not to work together with us. I think that's exactly what we need right now.”

“I have a preference for infrastructure,” agreed

What's the Real Secret They're Hiding About ISIS?

Did the “Islamic State” spring full-blown into spontaneous being as the fanatical scourge of the Middle East, or was it helped along by state sponsors? In ISIS Is Us, a panel of cutting-edge researchers tells what ISIS really is, and what has been going on secretly in Iraq, Syria, and Libya. The conclusion: ISIS is Iran-Contra all over again.

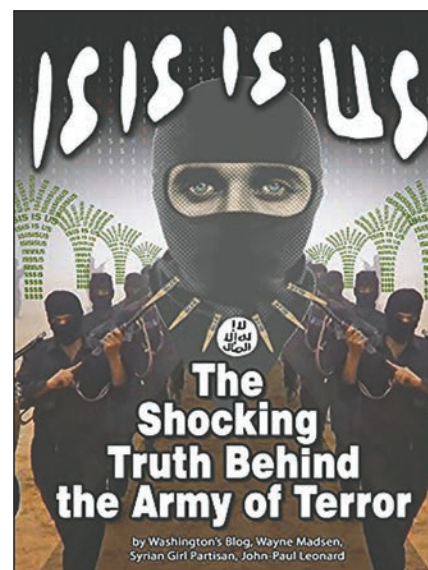

In the 1980s, the Reagan administration wanted to topple the government of Nicaragua, using right-wing mercenary death squads, based in Honduras. But Congress passed a law prohibiting that. So they went around it, by financing the Contra army via Iran.

Three decades later, Washington hawks wanted to topple the elected governments of Libya and Syria, and crush the popular resistance in Iraq. Once again, they planned to do this using death squads. They got around Congress by having Qatar and Saudi Arabia finance it. To set up ISIS in Iraq, they sent Ambassador John Negroponte to Baghdad in 2004—the same man they sent to Honduras as ambassador from 1981 to 1985.

Then in 2011, the U.S. strategy planners sent some of those killers from Iraq to Libya to overthrow Qaddafi, with NATO air cover. From Libya, they were sent on to Syria to start the killing there, in a war directed by Negroponte's man, Ambassador Robert Stephen Ford.

Over the next couple of years, the embedded mockingbird media perversely pinned the killings of civilians on Syria's Bashar al-Assad. Only Russia's UN veto spared Syria. Still, the sheikhs kept on financing the “rebels”—and the U.S. pretended to fight them—until they grew into the ISIS terror army.

Today, in spite of Russian military intervention, ISIS and its backers are not giving up. Even Fox News is saying the U.S. coalition against ISIS is a myth. That was shown quite clearly when the Russian military hit more ISIS targets in a week than the U.S. and its allies did in two years. The authors of ISIS Is Us dig deeper and look harder than any to bring you the full story that is being hidden by the U.S. government and twisted by CIA-controlled media outlets.

Softcover, 270 pages, $20 plus $4 S&H inside the U.S. Send check, cash, money order to AFP, 16000 Trade Zone Avenue, Unit 406, Upper Marlboro, MD 20774 or see AmericanFreePress.net.

Mr. Trump needs to get a nationwide infrastructure program going now and push forward the idea of import taxes.

Inhofe. “It’s more bipartisan, and it’s something that the public wants more. I’m sure they want the tax stuff to be addressed, but not as much.”

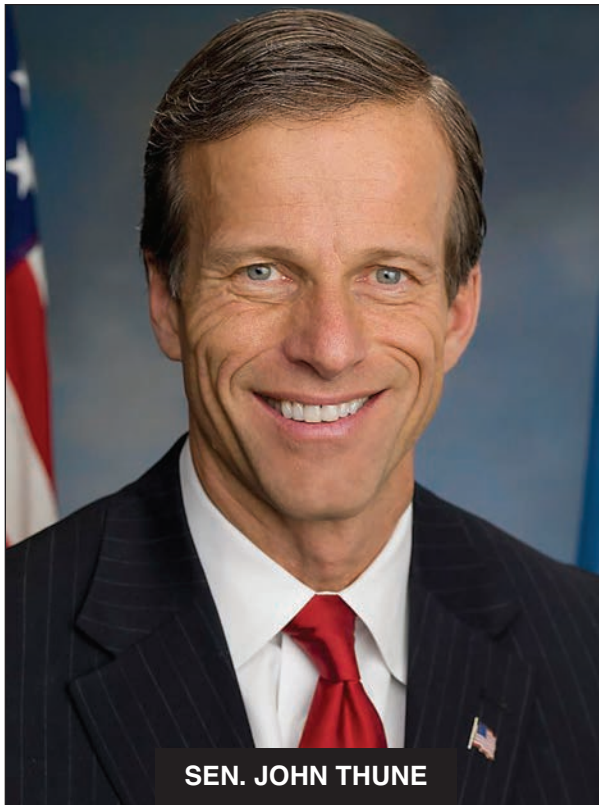

Yet, if the views of senators such as John Thune (R-S.D.) and Deb Fischer (R-Neb.) have any merit—with both lawmakers saying that tax reform perhaps should be dealt with up front—then let’s look at tariffs as a major part of any tax-reform alternative.

As President Trump tries to overhaul the 1994 North American Free Trade Agreement while calling for a “Buy American” economic ethos—in tandem with his stated intent to back away from multilateral trade deals like the Trans-Pacific Partnership and instead rely on bilateral agreements—tariffs indeed could be prioritized. Because a lot of the heavy truck and ship traffic that exerts tremendous stress on our highways, roads, bridges, and ports obviously involves imported goods, then, logically, an import tax of sufficient size should be applied to those goods to offset that wear and tear.

In other words, since most of the heaviest traffic utilizing U.S. infrastructure consists of trade, then a trade tax should be used to maintain that infrastructure.

And because tariffs, when properly applied, tend to protect domestic industry, that would result in a larger industrial foundation, which, in turn, forms the tax base of the states and localities—a tax base that undergirds the funding of local roads, streets, bridges, sidewalks, parks, water systems, schools, local public transit (which reduces highway stress and maintenance costs) etc. When a community has a strong, diversified tax base, the property taxes and other taxes and fees on individual homeowners tend to be far less burdensome.

Furthermore, when it comes to funding, Congress could hardly be more myopic. Do none of these Congress members look to history and consider the works of congressmen like Wright Patman, Jerry Voorhis, and Louis McFadden? These late congressmen, in their heyday, were well aware of the pitfalls and perils of having the privately owned and controlled Federal Reserve central bank create the nation’s money supply, largely on its own terms and conditions. They and others, including inventors and industrialists like Thomas Edison and Henry Ford, knew that Congress could sack the Fed and resort to constitutionally creating the nation’s own money—directly and interest free.

That would mean that when Congress lays out the nation’s needs, such as for infrastructure—and major engineering firms have estimated America needs some $3 trillion in total infrastructure repairs and upgrades—Congress would compile a list of prioritized public works projects and create the new money it needs to finance a given project, rather than transferring money from one entity to another via taxation or borrowing. The new money would be added to the public weal and not counted as debt to be returned to the banking system with interest attached.

Referring to financing Muscle Shoals, a public works project consisting of a hydro-electrical plant, Edison said the following:

If the nation can issue a dollar bond it can issue a dollar bill. The element that makes the bond good makes the bill good also. The difference between the bond and the bill is that the bond lets the money broker collect twice the amount of the bond [and even more interest]. Whereas the currency, the honest sort provided by the Constitution, pays nobody but those who contribute in some useful way. It is absurd to say our country can issue bonds and cannot issue currency. Both are promises to pay, but one fattens the usurer and the other helps the people.

So, whenever Americans hear news reports saying things like, “The timing and fate of President Trump’s infrastructure plan may depend on whether the GOP enacts major tax reform—a task that could prove challenging amid the struggle to pass a healthcare bill,” as the Hill remarked, they must keep in mind the broader themes that aren’t part of the media’s daily discourse and have been largely blotted out from the national memory. ★

PAID POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT

LET ME WORK

The term “deep state” has swept through the political scene with alacrity, probably because it is evident that the entrenched liberal bureaucracy is fighting Donald Trump desperately to prevent the policies he was elected to promulgate from becoming a reality. So I have a reply for Mr. Trump:

Pile the scandals high at Little Rock and Washington
Shovel them under and let me work—

I am Deep State: I sabotage and obstruct and cover all.

And pile them high with Whitewater and cattle futures
And pile them high with million-dollar speeches and pay for play
And pile them high with national resource sellouts and Fast and Furious
And pile them high with Arab Spring and Benghazi.
Shovel the email security breaches and Loretta Lynch
Under the tarmac and let me work.

Two months, four months, and students ask their professor:

What happened then?
Why wasn’t Hillary indicted?
Why wasn’t Obama impeached?
Where do we stand NOW?

NOW I am President.

Let ME work.

What Would Happen if We Stop Vaccinating?

Head of world-renowned clinic supports vaccinations, but wonders if there is another, better way. . . .

THE HEAD OF A WORLD-RENOWNED U.S. clinic in Ohio said recently he supports vaccinations but suggests that there has to be a better way to defeat disease. Suffice it to say, he is in some hot water now! Today we are injected with foreign disease substances that we normally would want to avoid simply to elicit a lifesaving IMMUNE RESPONSE.*

Here's a possible answer (I am a graduate engineer not a doctor). In my 88th year—a family effort—I am not new to controversy! In 1957 I had the best discus throw in the World (T&F News, Vol. 10, No. 12) but gave it up because I knew Anabolic Steroids would cause users heart damage! At the time, all the top athletes were being pushed to use them. They had been told they were safe by doctors.

Anabolic steroid inventor John Ziegler, M.D. said before he died at 63: "I wish I had listened to [John Ellis]. I damaged my own heart!"

I WAS RIGHT THEN AND I AM RIGHT NOW

A great friend, Al Oerter (won the Olympic discus four times), needed a heart transplant and died shortly after he and his wife visited my daughter in Atlanta. I have a long list of Olympic friends who are dead because they were "FDA approved" (now banned).

I was right then about anabolic steroids and I am right now about viruses and disease!! As viruses mutate, vaccines have to become stronger until reaching a toxic overload tipping point. (During a physical, I received an inadvertent Lyme Disease Shot, later recalled!)

THE ANSWER: Since blood is 94% water, change the properties of water (our E-5 water machine does that) and flush disease markers and toxic elements out of the blood stream (typical Zurich results shown under "Violating Faraday's Law," below). This has been confirmed by a UCLA M.D. doing independent Blood Flow Research to prevent strokes and heart attacks. (See more at JohnEllis.com.)

One fan of our water said: "You can't argue with something you can measure. Nothing is even close to your water [John Ellis Crystal Clear Water made with our own patented water machines] because you changed water properties!"

After treating a well (soak in the water!), a Jan. 27, 1992, Washington Post Investigation article described how it works (13 International Patents): "10,000 people/day said this water will cure anything even cancer and diabetes!" Washington Times (after the top scientist at Los Alamos Nuclear Lab with 4 PHD's bought our E5 Machine): "I am embarrassed to tell you he DID change the properties of water and we wish we owned his patents!"

DEDICATED TO HEALTH & HUMAN RIGHTS

A wonderful woman from a major foundation funded our Ebola results in the video ignoring her male counterparts like American Red Cross Founder Clara Barton: "We nursed you back to health and now we need your help!" But unfortunately some of her counterparts made sure help never came . . . even after thousands of women like my grandmother and Clara Barton went to Rochester, NY and descended on the home of women suffragist Susan B. Anthony (Clara Barton's 6th cousin) to offer their support for a woman's right to vote! If you Google: Nursing Sisters Port Dover, you'll see a book by Harry B. Barrett with pictures of my grandmother and her heroic nursing sisters during WW1 including one sister who was mentioned in wartime dispatches for her heroism resulting in a certificate presented to her by King George V. In spite of her "valor in the face of the enemy", after throwing caution to the wind because the love of her life had been killed in action, a woman was ineligible to receive the Victoria Cross!

Heartbroken, this beautiful lady never married.

There are hundreds of letters and pictures, including one of the ambulances my grandmother donated (before we entered WWII) encouraged by her friend, suffragist Carrie Chapman Catt, who moved around the corner from my grandmother in New Rochelle, N.Y. As a youngster, I remember all the sewing machines and their many friends at my grandmother's house sewing thousands of pre-die cut clothes together to keep children warm during the brutally cold English winters. Carrie Chapman Catt also founded the League of Woman Voters and is most famous for her Congressional speech resulting in the 19th Constitutional Amendment that gave woman the right to vote in 1920!

All this took place after Susan B. Anthony died.

Now, history repeats itself, except this time their counterparts have problems with clogged arteries, heart attacks, prostate problems and cancer by stonewalling a Man's right and a Woman's right to flush DEUTERIUM (a major cause of Aging and Cancer) and Pathogens out of their bloodstreams . . . so these diseases aren't handed down to generations of our unborn children and grandchildren!!

NEW VIDEO SHOWS E5 MACHINE AT WORK

Go to www.JohnEllis.com/NIH and you can watch an informative video which explains just how our E5 Water Machine works. And, just below the video, there is a green link to multiple NIH.Gov studies demonstrating the adverse health effects of deuterium in your water.

ALL DRINKING WATER HAS DEUTERIUM!

Deuterium damages your DNA! A major cause of aging and cancer! Discover Deuterium Depleted Water (DDW) at the NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH—WWW.NIH.GOV. Dozens of studies “Revealing Water’s Secrets” that confirm the phenomenal DDW results we receive (below) but WITH A TWIST!! To produce DDW you have to RE-DISTILL water 60 times ($300 for a small bottle!). However, our machines DISTILL AUTOMATICALLY . . . 100’s of TIMES/ GALLON (not ONCE!!) and by doing this 100’s OF TIMES you also produce water with MEASURABLE ENERGY (Ammeter video below!) that powers your HEART (defibrillator)! Your heart doesn’t have to work as hard to keep you alive! With 13 Patents, 332 FDA Tests it’s the rage worldwide! BUY DDW BOTTLED WATER or MAKE IT AT HOME . . . for PENNIES and take a 501C3 Tax Deduction!!

Go to www.JohnEllis.com and click on the green link.
Hundreds of studies could save your life!

The video shows that by changing water properties, small amounts of this water can treat vast quantities of ordinary water (even an aquifer or lake) so Municipalities can supply this healing water right at the tap!! Go to our website JohnEllis.com/NIH with a link to the National Institutes of Health. (Deuterium is found in every bottle or glass of water you drink!)

However, DDW (Deuterium Depleted Water) is only part of the battle for better health as noted by Nobel Prize Winner Albert Szentgyorgy: “Hydrogen is the Fuel of Life” because, unlike ordinary DDW, by also changing Water Properties and increasing the Hydrogen Bond Angle between atoms (so it has more room to hold viruses and environmental contaminants in suspension) they can be eliminated from the bloodstream with almost immediate results!

Small amounts of this water can treat millions of gallons of ordinary water (as the Municipal Video shows) including markers for disease, so they can be flushed from a human waste lagoon or the blood stream along with heavy metals. (Flint, MI: thousands of children have irreversible brain damage.)

VIOLATING FARADAY’S LAW?

Here’s what a man in Zurich said: “I have had your E5 Water Machine for only 24 hours. I had gross swelling in my legs and hadn’t worn ordinary shoes in years. Your water immediately destroyed the markers for elephantiasis in my blood stream!! I lost all the water weight in my legs and I bought a pair of shoes size 10 ½. Also unlike ordinary DDW, using electrolysis (a battery and two thin pieces of stainless steel, anode and cathode, not a stack that negates power) your water produces so much Hydrogen it violates Faraday’s Law . . . producing the energy needed to stop disease!!”

COOK WITH THIS WATER!

Since it’s made by boiling and cooling, this energy is imparted to your food, unlike ordinary water that absorbs energy (from your food and body) to reach equilibrium! Also, since DEUTERIUM studies (150 ppm) show it kills fruit flies and disease carrying mosquitoes, you don’t want to remove all the Deuterium!! Instead, INCREASE the Hydrogen Bond Angle (so it holds more contaminants in suspension along with Deuterium) and flush Deuterium along with viral diseases from the bloodstream with almost IMMEDIATE results!! Note the typical cancer charts: The “purest water” is USELESS because it doesn’t do the above. They still have cancer!

MAKING DDW YOURSELF

Using our E5 Water Machine, you can make two types of DDW for PENNIES per GALLON . . . not $300 for a small bottle! This is done by heating and cooling water hundreds of times per gallon (not just once!) to change the properties of that water. We have 13 International Patents and 332

FDA Tests. You can judge the blatant dishonesty in the water industry using simple electrolysis. A child in science class could do that!

AMAZING POWER PROPERTIES

A company that produces hydrogen generators for trucks found the required power slowly went down over 24 hours (a cascading effect that is immediate once it has been treated) from 31 amps to less than 1 amp making the same amount of hydrogen by adding only 20 drops of this water to ordinary water in their hydrogen generator (another website video)! Using this technology, you can power your car, heat your home and produce electricity for pennies. Watch the Video that shows examples PROVING you are drinking the wrong water . . . just as food supplies energy, this water provides the “BODY ELECTRIC” energy that powers your heart (defibrillator to stop a heart attack, pacemaker)!

Real 9/11 Probe Could Expose Mueller

• Architect-attorney David Noble says “Trump knows who did Sept. 11, 2001 attacks”

By Kevin Barrett

David Noble, an architect and attorney from southern California, campaigned for Donald Trump. Noble is now involved in another “Trump campaign”—a campaign to inform the president that Israel was behind the attacks of Sept. 11, 2001.

In a series of 28 letters to Trump, Noble cites evidence that 9/11 was a neocon-Zionist coup d'état. Noble's letters also address Israel's horrific behavior in other areas, including the false-flag massacre of USS Liberty sailors in 1967, the systematic racism built into Israel's legal code, the Zionists' swindling of billions of dollars from U.S. taxpayers, and their war crimes and genocide against the Palestinians.

Showing Trump pictures of Israeli atrocities, including numerous murders of helpless children by Israeli forces, Noble asks the president: “What if Cuba occupied Florida and did this to you? What if this were Mar-a-Lago?”

In a recent letter Noble has urged Trump to open a real 9/11 investigation, pointing out that this would quickly lead to criminal charges against former FBI Director Robert Mueller, who is currently leading an investigation of the president and select associates. Mueller was appointed FBI chief one week before 9/11 and subsequently presided over the cover-up.

But Noble hastens to add that this issue is of such existential importance to America that it transcends partisan politics.

“If you don't go after the people who did it, they'll laugh in your face,” he said. “They'll be proud of it. They'll be full of chutzpah: ‘We can get away with it! You know exactly what we did, and you're not going to do a damn thing about it. And what's more, we're going to do something even worse tomorrow.’”

Noble's letters refer to Trump's television news interview on Sept. 11, 2001, during which the interviewer stated, “There are a great deal of questions about whether the damage and the ultimate destruction of the buildings was caused by airplanes, by architectural defect, or possibly by bombs, or possibly aftershocks.”

Trump replied:

It wasn't architectural defect. The World Trade Center was always known as a very, very strong building. Don't forget, that building took a big bomb in the basement [in 1993]. Now, the basement is the most vulnerable place, because that is your foundation. And I got to see that area about three or four days after [the first bombing] took place, because one of my structural engineers took me for a tour, because he did the building. And I said, “I can't believe it.” The building was standing solid. And half of the columns were blown out.

Demanding an honest investigation into the events of Sept. 11 could leave Mueller in a bad spot.

This was an unbelievably powerful building. And if you know anything about structure, it was one of the first buildings that was built from the outside. The steel—the reason the World Trade Center had such narrow windows is that in between all the windows, you had steel on the outside of the building . . . you had heavy I-beams. When I first looked at it, I couldn't believe it, because there was a hole in the steel . . . I happen to think that they had not only a plane, but they had bombs that exploded almost simultaneously.

Noble wrote to Trump on June 12 of this year:

It became immediately obvious to you that explosives were used, and the official story is therefore a fraud. If Mr. Mueller had done his job, the evidence would have been preserved. There would have been indictments, prosecutions, and convictions of 9/11 perpetrators. But not under his direction.

Now he is investigating your team and you for who knows what? To get your loyalty to the 9/11 lie so there never will be any investigation and prosecution of perpetrators and co-conspirators, including himself and others?

We think if you appoint a truly independent 9/11 special prosecutor, their witch hunt may implode. Even if not, we need to face the 9/11 truth issue before this festering wound on our civilization continues to infect us with more global war on (of) terror that was planned by the PNAC group, the G.W. Bush administration, beginning with 9/11, to take out seven countries in five years, (“regime change”), as Gen. Wesley Clark (ret.) has so articulately witnessed.

In a 9/11 ground zero interview with Stephan Bachenheimer on Sept. 13, 2001, Trump said of America's leaders: “They have to find out exactly what the cause was, who did it, and they have to go after these people because there is no other choice. . . . Americans deserve to know what really happened.”

Let's hope Trump listens to Noble—and to his own wise words spoken almost 16 years ago. ★

Phantom Flight 93 & Other Astounding Sept. 11 Mysteries Explored

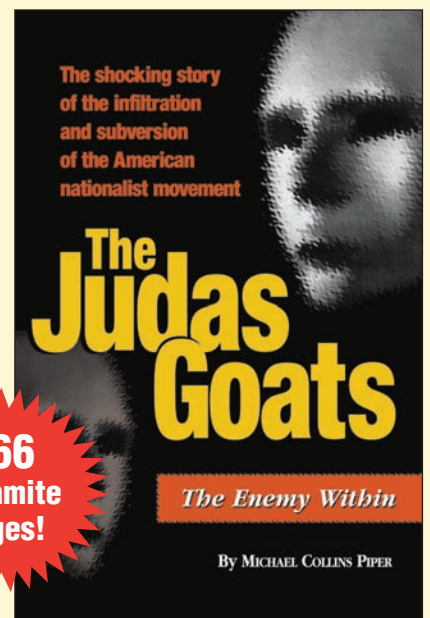

Starting with physical evidence, it becomes clear that a passenger jetliner could not have possibly crashed in Shanksville, Pennsylvania, where federal officials said it did on 9-11-2001. Rather, the reality of that fateful morning is much more troublesome—and far more sinister. The book also examines the cell phone calls made by passengers, 9/11 passenger list oddities and more. For far too long, Flight 93 has been overlooked by researchers and commentators in the alternative media. Was the American public deceived not only about the World Trade Center towers and the Pentagon, but also about this unproven crash in rural southwest Pennsylvania? The Shocking Never-Before-Told Story of the Infiltration and Subversion of the American Nationalist Movement

pages!

This amazing work by veteran investigator Michael Collins Piper demonstrates how, during the course of the 20th century, paid agents and disruptors—including the FBI, CIA, Mossad and the ADL—working on behalf of the Zionist cause and for the international interests of the Rothschild banking empire, infiltrated and subverted American nationalist and patriotic groups.

Here is a detailed overview of the intrigues of the infamous Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, the corruption of the FBI and the CIA by Zionist elements, the evidence pointing toward Israeli involvement in the Oklahoma City bombing, the strange, little known story of how Trotskyite elements seized command of the American “conservative” movement and also played a role in manipulating Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy’s hunt for communists in high places, a study of the secret powers behind Rupert Murdoch’s media empire and much, much more.

Has Bilderberg Already Chosen America's Next Chief Executive?

everybody has an opportunity for a job," McAuliffe told Politico, adding that he's pro-abortion, pro-gay rights, pro-environment, and anti-gun.

Many of those who are members of, or otherwise attend, Bilderberg or Trilateral Commission meetings sport similar socialist-style, left-leaning political and cultural views intertwined with monopoly capitalism—a degenerate form of free enterprise rigged to artificially protect the super-rich.

McAuliffe's resumé clearly shows he's a handy asset to carry out political assignments dictated by the bankers, corporate titans, and others in the Bilderberg private-governance network. Among other things, McAuliffe:

- was former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, 2001-2005,
- co-chaired President Bill Clinton's 1996 re-election campaign,
- chaired Hillary Clinton's 2008 presidential campaign,
- was one of five Clinton Foundation board of directors members in 2004, and
- is current chairman of the National Governors Association.

Further illustrating why McAuliffe's pedigree makes him suitable for the Bilderbergers, this 72nd Virginia governor also has "earned millions as a banker, real estate developer, home builder, hotel owner, and Internet venture capitalist," according to the Washington Post.

Furthermore, McAuliffe in 1985 helped found the Federal City National Bank in Washington. When McAuliffe, now age 60, was 30 years old, the bank's board elected him to be the youngest chairman in the United States Federal Reserve Bank's charter association.

And while McAuliffe and staffers raised a then-unheard-of sum of $275 million for Bill Clinton's causes while he was president in the 1990s, after Clinton's tarnished tenure ended, McAuliffe financially guaranteed the $1.35 million Clinton mortgage for their Chappaqua, N.Y. home in a deal that raised ethical questions. Moreover, as recently as May 2016, the FBI was probing whether donations to McAuliffe's gubernatorial campaign were illegal. A $120,000 donation from Chinese businessman Wang Wenliang was investigated.

What's more, Hillary's brother, Tony Rodham, formerly ran an EB-5 visa-investment outfit named Gulf Coast Funds Management that directed funds to GreenTech Automotive, a holding company then owned by McAuliffe. In May of 2010, GreenTech purchased Chinese electric car company GTA MyCar for $20 million. At that time, Gulf Coast and GreenTech, in what some saw as excessive political influence-peddling, pressed U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services to approve investments that could provide green cards for foreigners willing to front over $550,000 in principal and fees.

Evidently trying to polish his presumed presidential credentials, McAuliffe has lately been going beyond his gubernatorial duties in sharing his views on federal issues such as a possible Obamacare repeal—which he opposes. And on Jan. 31, McAuliffe and Virginia Attorney General Mark Herring announced their state was joining the lawsuit Aziz vs. Trump, challenging Trump's border-security executive orders, showing where he comes down on border issues.

Look for internationalist-minded McAuliffe to establish "beachheads" by trying to get discredited Democrats back into Congress in the 2018 mid-term elections and more "favorable" people into governor seats, thereby building a better base for what looks like a presidential run. If history—which when honestly considered shows there's a Bilderberg role in king-making—is a reliable teacher, then Bilderberg is apparently green-lighting one of its properly pedigreed plutocratic assets to make some early moves. ★

Conspiracy Under Way to Remove Donald Trump from Oval Office

By Paul Craig Roberts

It's true: U.S. intelligence services, the Democratic Party, some Republicans including members of President Trump's own government, and the presstitute U.S. media are conspiring against American democracy and the president of the United States.

We know this from a public letter to Trump published on "ConsortiumNews" by Veteran Intelligence Professionals for Sanity.*

Unlike the CIA, NSA, and FBI, the veteran intelligence professionals performed forensic investigations. They found conclusive evidence that the alleged "Guccifer 2.0" July 5, 2016 intrusion into the DNC server [these are the emails that show the DNC working for Hillary against Sanders] was not hacked but leaked. The leaked documents were copied onto an external storage device and doctored with a cut-and-paste job to implicate Russia as having hacked the documents.

In other words, the alleged hack was instead a copy from the inside that was subsequently doctored to reflect Russian origin. The veteran intelligence professionals surmise that this was done in order to focus attention away from the embarrassing content of the emails, placing attention instead on "Russian interference in the U.S. presidential election."

As I see it, the success of this false and orchestrated story of Russian hacking, for which not a scrap of evidence exists, revealed to the military/security complex the opportunity to remove Trump and thus protect the military/security complex that is threatened by Trump's intention to normalize relations with Russia. It revealed to the Hillary forces the opportunity to vindicate themselves with the argument that Russia stole the election for Trump. It revealed to Israel the opportunity to put an end to Trump's withdrawal of U.S. interference in the Middle East, thus enabling Israel to continue to use the U.S. military to clear away obstacles to Israeli expansion. It provided the presstitutes, who hate Trump and "the deplorables" who elected him, with a headline story for months and months to be followed in their expectations with the story of Trump's removal from the presidency.

The retired intelligence professionals are too circumspect to tell President Trump outright that a conspiracy is under way to remove him from office whether by impeachment or assassination by a right-wing "lone nut" enraged at the traitorous president, but this does seem to be the message between the lines. Read the letter and come to your own conclusion.* ★

A Short Synopsis of Findings on DNC Hacking

The following short excerpt is from Veteran Intelligence Professionals for Sanity published on the "Consortium News" website. It shows quite clearly that the claims against Russia for hacking the DNC server are nothing but a propaganda ploy that the anti-Trump mockingbird media has picked up and repeated ad nauseam:

“Forensic studies of 'Russian hacking' into Democratic National Committee computers last year reveal that on July 5, 2016, data was leaked (not hacked) by a person with physical access to DNC computers, and then doctored to incriminate Russia.

“After examining metadata from the 'Guccifer 2.0' July 5, 2016 intrusion into the DNC server, independent cyber investigators have concluded that an insider copied DNC data onto an external storage device, and that 'telltale signs' implicating Russia were then inserted.

“Key among the findings of the independent forensic investigations is the conclusion that the DNC data was copied onto a storage device at a speed that far exceeds an Internet capability for a remote hack. Of equal importance, the forensics show that the copying and doctoring were performed on the East Coast of the U.S. Thus far, mainstream media have ignored the findings.”★

Hike in Military Budget Risks American Security & Economy

By Rep. Ron Paul

July 14, the House overwhelmingly approved a massive increase in military spending, passing a $696 billion National Defense Authorization bill for 2018. President Donald Trump's request already included a huge 50 or so billion dollar spending increase, but the Republican-led House found even that to be far too small. They added another $30 billion to the bill for good measure. Even Trump, in his official statement, expressed some concern over spending in the House-passed bill.

According to the already weak limitations on military spending increases in the 2011 "sequestration" law, the base military budget for 2018 would be $72 billion more than allowed.

Don't worry; they'll find a way to get around that.

The big explosion in military spending comes as the U.S. is planning to dramatically increase its military actions overseas. The president is expected to send thousands more troops back to Afghanistan, the longest war in U.S. history. After nearly 16 years, the Taliban controls more territory than at any time since the initial U.S. invasion, and ISIS is seeping into the cracks created by constant U.S. military action in the country.

The Pentagon and Defense Secretary James Mattis are already telling us that even when ISIS is finally defeated in Iraq, the U.S. military doesn't dare end its occupation of the country again. Look for a very expensive array of permanent U.S. military bases throughout the country. So much for our 2003 invasion creating a stable democracy, as the neo-cons promised.

The president wanted a $50 billion increase, but Congress jacked that up to $80 billion.

In Syria, the United States has currently established at least eight military bases even though it has no permission to do so from the Syrian government. Pentagon officials have made it clear they will continue to occupy Syrian territory even after ISIS is defeated to "stabilize" the region.

And let's not forget that Washington is planning to send the U.S. military back to Libya, another U.S. intervention we were promised would be stabilizing but that turned out to be a disaster.

Also, the drone wars continue in Somalia and elsewhere, as does the U.S. participation in Saudi Arabia's horrific two-year war on impoverished Yemen.

Trump often makes encouraging statements suggesting that he shares some of our non-interventionist views. For example, while Congress was shoveling billions into an already bloated military budget last week, Trump said that he did not want to spend trillions more dollars in the Middle East where we get "nothing" for our efforts. He'd rather fix roads here in the U.S., he said. The only reason we are there, he said, was to "get rid of terrorists," after which we can focus on our problems at home.

Unfortunately, Trump seems to be incapable of understanding that it is U.S. intervention and occupation of foreign countries that creates instability and feeds terrorism. Continuing to do the same thing for more than 17 years—more U.S. bombs to "stabilize" the Middle East—and expecting different results is hardly a sensible foreign policy. It is insanity.

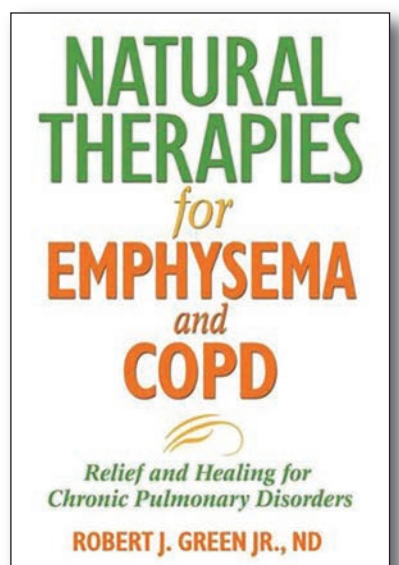

Until Trump realizes that our military empire is the source of, rather than the solution to, our problems, we will continue to wildly spend on our military empire until the dollar collapses and we are brought to our knees. Then what? ★

Carson Vows to ‘Reinterpret’ HUD Program

• Obama-era rule designed to “legislate racial equality” may be on chopping block

By John Friend

Team Trump continues to confront and rectify some of the disastrous policies enacted by former President Barack Obama, along with the many problems created by his administration.

For example, Ben Carson, President Trump’s Housing and Urban Development secretary, announced in late July that his agency will “reinterpret” an Obama-era federal housing rule designed to “reduce segregation” and “increase diversity” using the power and resources of the federal government.

The rule, known as the Affirmatively Furthering Fair Housing rule, was enacted in 2015 with the goal of fulfilling certain obligations in the Fair Housing Act, federal legislation enacted during the Civil Rights era. The rule mandated that local governments outline zoning and development plans to reduce segregation, which amounts to the government artificially creating more diversity in a particular jurisdiction, regardless of its effects or potential problems.

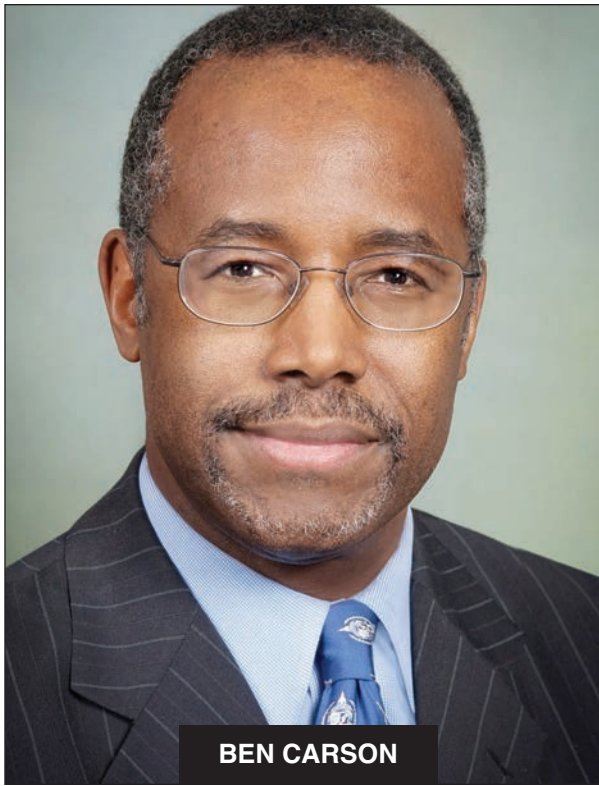

The rule was extremely costly to local governments, and critics saw little to no benefits to the rule.

The Affirmatively Furthering Fair Housing rule supplies local jurisdictions with federal demographic and socioeconomic data along with guidelines for determining if and how minorities and other so-called protected groups—homosexuals, transgendered individuals, and refugees, for example—are being excluded from housing opportunities. The data and guidelines are then supposed to be assessed by local authorities, and a plan must be developed to address the purported disparities in housing opportunities. In other words, local communities will have to figure out how to force people into communities that may not want them to be there or risk losing money from the federal government.

“Do I believe in fair housing? Of course, I believe in fair housing,” Carson explained to reporters shortly after making the announcement. Carson went on to note that he doesn’t believe in “extra manipulation and cost,” which is what the rule effectively amounted to.

Congressional Republicans, led by Rep. Mike Lee (Utah), a long-time critic of the rule, have been urging Carson and the Trump administration to rescind the rule. Lee submitted a letter to Carson, which was co-signed by 12 other senators and seven House Republicans, outlining the problems with the rule shortly before Carson made his announcement to reinterpret the controversial legislation.

“We stand with you in opposing any and all instances of discrimination, but this rule does not actually help in that effort,” the letter read in part. Congressional Republicans have been particularly skeptical of allowing the federal government to insert itself into local zoning decisions and development plans, which the Affirmatively Furthering Fair Housing rule attempts to do.

BEN CARSON

Dr. Ben Carson, Donald Trump’s secretary of Housing and Urban Development, says he believes in fair housing laws, but not ones that require extra manipulation and extra cost at a federal or state level.

Local jurisdictions do not need the federal government dictating local zoning & development.

Additionally, congressional Republicans feared the ruling would allow federal block grants and other funding designed to encourage local development to be used to manipulate and coerce local jurisdictions into pursuing zoning and development policies with a leftist agenda.

Carson has previously criticized the rule as an “attempt to legislate racial equality.”

Critics have long argued that the rule unfairly burdens local governments and drains limited resources from other more productive endeavors.

Carson stated that the time and energy needed to develop these egalitarian and ultimately unrealistic plans is “craziness,” and that local jurisdictions do not need the federal government dictating or otherwise influencing local zoning and development decisions. ★

Texas Maverick Runs for Congress

• Congressional hopeful pays no income taxes, pushes for state militias to defend against tyranny

By Dave Gahary

Nicholas Landholt is a man on a mission. Born in San Antonio, Texas in 1955, Nick served in the U.S. Navy for 10 years, where he met his wife, and has been married for 36 years. Landholt ran for Congress in 2016 on the Libertarian Party of Texas ticket last year and did surprisingly well, and he's gearing up for another run next year.

AMERICAN FREE PRESS sat down with Landholt — whom some libertarians call “The Militia Guy”—for an exclusive interview on his upbringing and his ideas to get America back to the people it was founded for.

“I almost went into the seminary,” Landholt began, “but my dad was seeing some of the uproar that was happening in the Catholic Church, so he thought it best that I not go into the seminary where I could possibly lose my faith. I sort of did during high school and college anyway.”

Landholt's dad, who—like his mom—had a great impact on his life, had another idea.

“My dad thought it would be good for me to get into the military and to kind of grow up, you might say,” he said.

WILLING TO TAKE THE HEAT

“In 1996, I stopped paying and filing [federal] income taxes,” he said, “but I stayed underneath the radar because I had three boys and a wife that I was supporting. But it was in the last five years—because the boys are grown now—that I said it's time to have a coming-out party. And whether it's shaming patriots or so-called “Christians” into doing what know I'm for real and I'm willing to take the heat, but I need a support team behind me; I don't want to be charging up the hill on my own.”

Landholt recounted his anti-tax/pro-militia congressional campaign in Texas's 11th congressional district.

“I filed to run in December 2015, and it was a few months later that I started to get into the whole militia aspect and the IRS,” he said. “I don't know if those were just two hot issues that the Libertarians did not want to address or not, but . . . I was basically kind of left out there on my own. So not having run a campaign, not knowing rules, I just kind of let it come to me, and it never did come to me.”

Although he had no campaign contributions, he did quite well at the polls.

“In 2016, running a one-man campaign with no bank account, I still got over 23,000 votes,” he said. “My campaign was against 10-year incumbent Mike Conaway, [a] RINO.”

A shocking exposé of Deep State atrocities from the JFK murder to the attacks of 9/11

JFK-9/11

JFK-9/11 by Laurent Guyénot assembles the most significant and well-documented “deep events” of the last 50 years into a coherent narrative of the “deep history” of the United States and its sphere of influence. Relying strictly on documented evidence and state-of-the-art JFK and 9/11 research, the book cuts through the layers of government and mainstream media lies to expose the hidden powers at work in the Empire's underground foreign policy. It documents the role of undercover and paramilitary operations, psychological warfare and disinformation campaigns, and above all false-flag terror in the course of world politics since the beginning of the Cold War, and increasingly since Sept. 11. The book is divided into two parts: the first deals with the underlying forces of the Cold War, the second with the driving forces of the War on Terror. The period investigated begins just before Nov. 22, 1963 and peaks on Sept. 11, 2001, the two events that weigh most heavily on the unfolding of American history. NICHOLAS LANDHOLT ON THE SECOND AMENDMENT:

“The Preamble of the Constitution begins ‘We the People,’ meaning the People are the authority over the Constitution. And it is not a stretch to say that the first 13 words of the Second Amendment—‘A well regulated Militia being necessary to the security of a free State’—are the most important words in the Constitution. The People ARE the Militia, and patriots can see that our Founders were telling us ‘No Militia, No Free State.’” vative” Republicans.

Kenneth Michael “Mike” Conaway—in office since Jan. 3, 2005—Landholt explained, “has a ‘Liberty Score’ of ‘F’ with Conservative Review,” a group that ranks politicians along a conservative scale.

“[Conaway] got just over 200,000 votes,” Nick said, in a district of about 750,000 residents.

Landholt figures there are at least another 200,000 voters who never went to their polling place.

The 11th congressional district is very rural, encompassing 29 counties.

“So there are 29 county sheriffs,” Landholt explained, “[who] could be educated on the income tax and why they should be keeping the IRS agents from harassing taxpayers who choose to actually follow the IRS regulations regarding income tax.”

“It was a very winnable race,” Landholt continued, “and I think the fact that I got 23,000 votes without basically doing anything kind of tells the level of disgust that Texas voters have with status-quo politics. We need resources, so that’s why I’m looking for a campaign manager who knows what they’re doing and can go from there.”

Landholt explained his views on why Americans are not required to pay federal income taxes.

“I always tell people we’re distinguishing here between income taxes and other taxes,” he explained. “Obviously, I pay taxes; I pay my fair share. You pay taxes almost all the time: sales tax, gas taxes etc. But federal income taxes, I’m not a federal citizen. I don’t work for an employer who contracts with the federal government. And that’s kind of in a nutshell what it boils down to. But I don’t ever advise somebody to just stop paying taxes; that’s a decision you’re gonna have to make on your own.”

AFP asked the purpose of the militia as it relates to his views on the federal income tax and if it would be used to physically fight the federal government.

“No, [Constitutional] militia is a defensive situation, and it’s not just fighting, but militias can be used for natural disasters—Hurricane Katrina and those kind of things. Instead of having FEMA, National Guard troops, the local militarized police forces going up and down the street knocking on doors and taking weapons away, you’d have local people who are militia helping out during situations.”

Landholt continued. “The purpose of the militia is threefold: to execute the laws of the Union, repel invasions, and suppress insurrections,” he began. “The money powers are not going to give up their investment—and we’re talkin’ over a hundred years—without a fight, and of course, they use the police state as their weapon of choice to fight Christian patriots. The IRS, the money powers, they’re not gonna go away quietly, so I presume that we’re going to need militias for defensive purposes.”

Landholt harkened back to the origins of this once-great national federation.

“As the Founding Fathers said,” he stated, “if you read between the lines—the lines being the first 13 words of the Second Amendment—‘a well regulated Militia being necessary to the security of a free State.’ Reading between the lines, the Founders were saying, ‘No militia, no free state.’ Well, that’s what I’m trying to get across not only to voters but to the youth, because the youth have no future if they don’t get involved and help us turn things around.”

AFP readers can reach out to Landholt to help get him in office at nlandholt@hotmail.com or by phone at 631-741-1757. ★

THE IRS NEVER LOSES A CASE—RIGHT?

WRONG! THE IRS HAS LOST IN COURT . . .

It was a loss so devastating that a Federal judge said, “If everyone did what this person did, it would be the end of this government!” and he didn’t even use a lawyer. He proved that he is not a taxpayer as defined by the Code. You can do the same. All evidence is provided. If you are not a taxpayer, the IRS code does not apply. Honoring the Memory of Victor

THOUGHT-PROVOKING BOOKS FROM RESEARCHER VICTOR THORN

Thought Form Messiahs

Until now, a complete alternative account of Adolf Hitler and the Nazi Party has not been fully revealed. This material is so controversial that revisionist historians will be debating it for ages. Other chapters focus on the possibility of Earth being part of a binary star system, the so-called “gravity hoax,” secret messages contained in Stanley Kubrick’s films, the mind control behind mass psychology, and how rock’n’ roll has been “possessed” by dark forces.

Softcover, 248 pages. 8.5 x 11, $20.

Psychic Volcano

Shakespeare, Scientology, NASA . . .

Throughout history, those in possession of secret energies have exerted a huge amount of influence over society. Learn about the secret cabal that wrote Shakespeare’s plays, the occult story lurking behind L. Ron Hubbard’s Scientology, and the hidden forces which have been fueling NASA since its earliest days. These same agents also masterminded the greatest war of the past 500 years, one that set the course Europe would take today. JUST THREE COPIES LEFT!

Softcover, 212 pages. 8.5 x 11, $20.

Conspiracy Magick

Boston bombing, magicians, DNA

For the first time in book form, the complete unedited version of what really happened during the Boston bombing. Also, Thorn provides a complete history of conspiracies dating back to pre-biblical times. He also interviewed over a dozen stage magicians to show how their tricks are used to manipulate money or socio-political events like the Trayvon Martin scandal. Plus, an extensive overview of Texe Marrs’s DNA Science and the Jewish Bloodline which brings to light Khazarian genetics.

Softcover, 160 pages. 8.5 x 11, $17.

‘Reality’ Bomb

UFOs, Edgar Cayce, blood types . . .

How do UFOs operate? Is it possible that ancient aliens still exert an extraterrestrial influence over our planet today? Did the U.S. military make ships disappear during the Philadelphia Experiment? How did sleeping prophet Edgar Cayce use remote viewing to cure patients thousands of miles away? Is artificial intelligence the final conspiracy? Are royal bloodlines and specific blood types today’s greatest cover-up? Who invented the first weather modification device? All these topics and more are presented in mind-blowing fashion. JUST TWO COPIES LEFT IN STOCK!

Softcover, 266 pages. 8.5 x 11, $20.

Pineal Eye Rising

Self-hypnosis and scrying

Over the course of two months, Thorn engaged in 18 self-hypnosis and scrying sessions. During these experiments, he uncovered previously inaccessible information pertaining to the Great Pyramid and Sphinx, crop circles, giants, esoteric energy sources, sacred geometry, ghosts and vampires, as well as other prophetic subjects. Supplemented by hundreds of illustrations, this book takes readers into a realm rarely visited by the human mind, one that far transcends what they’d ever encountered in traditional clockwork “reality.” A real mind-blower.

Softcover, 156 pages. 8.5 x 11, $17.

Conspiracy: Hollywood Style

Secret messages in Hollywood films

Images projected onto movie screens all across America have been used as a means of predictive programming for more than a century. In fact, this collection makes a strong argument that John F. Kennedy’s assassination had already been forecast a year earlier. Including 100 total film reviews, this is the first book ever that focuses specifically on Hollywood’s fascination with conspiracy realities. They’re all here: the OKC bombing, Roswell, the Boys from Brazil, the Moon landing hoax, and the Matrix.

Softcover, 260 pages. 8.5 x 11, $20.

Hammer

Nietzsche, Machiavelli, Pike and more

Oftentimes, the global elite don’t rely solely on politicians and other internationalist leaders to meld their ideas into society. Instead, they utilize philosophers, psychologists, novelists, secret society figures, and other “radicals.” The individuals contained in this book are, without doubt, the hardest hitting writers in Western civilization. Their ideas are not for the meek of spirit or mild of heart. Included are Nietzsche, the Protocols of Zion, Machiavelli, de Sade, Mencken, Marx, Albert Pike, and many others. JUST TWO COPIES LEFT IN STOCK!

Softcover, 195 pages. 6 x 9, $20.

Machine Elves, Cosmic Serpents & Quantum Magick

This text goes deeper down the rabbit hole than most anything available today. Not only are quantum theory and its relationship to the paranormal discussed, but also psychic censorship, Tesla free energy, and how highly illegal mind-altering substances trigger the pineal gland (third eye). Although barely discussed, what precisely are “machine elves,” and why are so many convinced that they exist? Just as importantly, the secret life of plants is explained, and its conclusions will leave readers stunned.

No National Outcry for White Victim

• Black immigrant cop guns down innocent white woman, but media spikes story

By John Friend

Local officials in Minneapolis have a lot of explaining to do after an unarmed woman was inexplicably shot and killed by a rookie police officer. On the evening of July 18, Justine Damond, a 40-year-old native of Australia who had moved to Minneapolis after getting engaged to an American man, was fatally shot in the abdomen by Mohamed Noor, a Somali-born Minneapolis police officer who joined the force to much fanfare in 2015. Ms. Damond was unarmed, and had called 911 at roughly 11:30 p.m. that night to report what she thought was a sexual assault or rape taking place in an alley outside her home.

After her initial call, Ms. Damond became worried that officers were lost after they failed to show up in a timely manner. Once she discovered the police cruiser driving through her back alley, she approached the vehicle to explain to officers where she thought the assault had been taking place.

According to a press release issued by the Minnesota Department of Public Safety Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, which is currently investigating the case, immediately prior to Ms. Damond approaching the driver's side of the police cruiser, the officers were "startled by a loud sound near the squad." Noor, who was in the passenger side of the cruiser, fired his weapon across the driver of the vehicle and through the open window as Ms. Damond approached the officers, fatally striking her, at least once, in the abdomen.

Only the officer who was driving the police cruiser, identified as Officer Matthew Harity, has discussed the case with investigators. Noor has refused to be interviewed by investigators, and his lawyer Justine Damond (nee Ruszczyk) had already changed her last name to that of her fiance Don Damond (shown in bottom photo, right), in advance of their upcoming marriage. She was gunned down by a black police officer in Minneapolis for no apparent reason. Does anyone care when a white is killed?

Had the officer been white and the victim black, the news media would have had 24/7 non-stop coverage.

has declined to provide clarification on when, if ever, he will discuss the matter with anyone. According to local officials in Minneapolis, the officer is not required to speak with investigators, and appears unwilling to cooperate with the investigation.

Many police experts have argued that police departments forbid officers from discharging their weapons while inside a police vehicle. Additionally, both officers failed to activate their body cameras—a requirement when a weapon is discharged—and the squad car's camera was not turned on, either. Investigators are thus far unaware of any video or audio recording of the fatal incident.

The bizarre and tragic shooting has shaken the Minneapolis community, as well as Ms. Damond's relatives, friends, and fellow countrymen in Australia. The community is demanding answers, which have thus far not been provided by authorities.

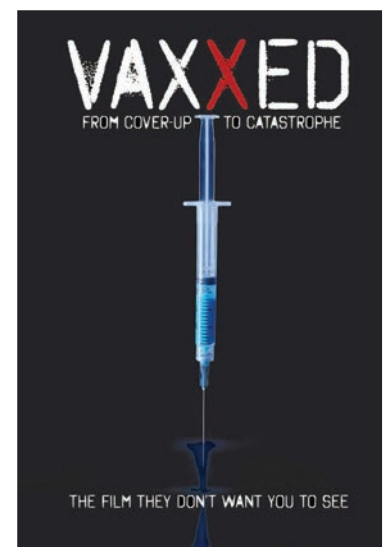

Minneapolis Mayor Betsy Hodges, who had previously praised Noor when he was first hired, requested Chief of Police Janeé Harteau to step down late last week. The mayor's press conference

VAXXED: THE MOVIE

FROM COVER-UP TO CATASTROPHE

In 2013, biologist Dr. Brian Hooker received a call from a senior scientist at the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) who led the agency's 2004 study on the Measles-Mumps-Rubella (MMR) vaccine and its link to autism. The scientist, Dr. William Thompson, confessed that the CDC had omitted crucial data in their final report that revealed a causal relationship between the MMR vaccine and autism. Over several months, Dr. Hooker records the phone calls made to him by Dr. Thompson who provides the confidential data destroyed by his colleagues at the CDC.

Dr. Hooker enlisted the help of Dr. Andrew Wakefield, the British gastroenterologist falsely accused of starting the anti-vax movement when he first reported in 1998 that the MMR vaccine may cause autism. In his ongoing effort to advocate for children's health, Wakefield directs this documentary examining the evidence behind an appalling cover-up committed by the government agency charged with protecting the health of all American citizens. Interviews with pharmaceutical insiders, doctors, politicians, and parents of vaccine-injured children reveal an alarming deception that has contributed to the skyrocketing increase of autism and potentially the most catastrophic epidemic of our lifetime. DVD, 91 minutes, $25 plus $4 S&H inside the U.S. from AFP, 16000 Trade Zone Avenue Unit 406, Upper Marlboro, MD 20774 or call 1-888-699-NEWS toll free to reserve your copy before we run out.

Officer Mohamed Noor, the man who shot an unarmed white woman in cold blood as she was reporting a possible rape in her neighborhood, has thus far refused to cooperate with the investigation.

announcing the resignation was interrupted by protesters, who demanded the mayor also step down. Both Mayor Hodges and former Chief of Police Harteau have stated publicly that Ms. Damond's death was unjustified and should not have happened.

"Justine didn't have to die," Harteau stated in a news conference prior to resigning. "I believe the actions in question go against who we are as a department, how we train, and the expectations we have for our officers."

According to reports, Noor has had three separate complaints filed against him since he became an officer. Two of the complaints are still ongoing, while the first was dismissed and Noor was not disciplined. One of the ongoing complaints alleges Noor committed assault and battery against a woman, forcibly removed her from her home, and brought her to a hospital.

Unsurprisingly, many national media outlets have failed to report on Noor's background and have downplayed the tragedy.

"Just imagine if the situation had been flipped and it had been a young, attractive [black] Muslim woman who called 911 and ran out in her pajamas, thinking she was going to get help, only to be shot and killed by a white officer," Ann Corcoran, who maintains the informative website "Refugee Resettlement Watch," said to reporters shortly after the story broke. "Think about the outcry that would have sparked from Minneapolis's liberal mayor and her cohorts. They would have played the race card and the religion card immediately. But because it was a black Muslim officer, you hear nothing about race or religion as a possible motivator."

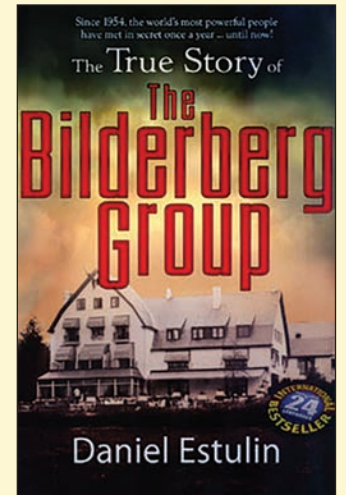

The investigation into Ms. Damond's death is ongoing. We at AFP certainly hope Ms. Damond's family and friends are provided with adequate answers explaining her entirely unnecessary and tragic death, and that justice is served. ★

Two New Books on the Global Elite Expose Bilderberg and the Tavistock Institute

The True Story of the Bilderberg Group

Delving into a world once shrouded in complete mystery and impenetrable security, this investigative gem from Daniel Estulin provides a fascinating account of the annual meetings of the world's most powerful people—the Bilderberg Group. Since its inception in 1954 at the Bilderberg Hotel in the small Dutch town of Oosterbeek, the Bilderberg Group has been comprised of European prime ministers, American presidents, and the wealthiest CEOs from across the world, all coming together to discuss the economic and political future of humanity—and how they can profit from global events. The working press has never been allowed to attend, nor have statements ever been released on the attendees' conclusions or discussions, which have ramifications for the citizens of the world. Using methods that resemble the spy tactics of the Cold War—and in several instances putting his own life on the line—the author did what no one else besides AFP's Bilderberg Hound Jim Tucker has managed to achieve: He learned what was being said behind the closed doors of the opulent hotels and has made it available to the public. This second edition includes an entirely new chapter and updated information on topics such as an earlier attempt to break up Canada and the portents of the North American Union. Softcover, 416 pages, large photo and insider document section, indexed. $25 plus $4 S&H inside the U.S.

The Tavistock Institute: Social Engineering the Masses

The Tavistock Institute, in England, describes itself as a non-profit charity that applies social science to contemporary issues and problems. But this book by Daniel Estulin posits that it is the world's center for mass brainwashing and social engineering operations. It grew from a humble beginning at Wellington House into a sophisticated organization that was to shape the destiny of the entire planet, and, in the process, change the paradigm of modern society. In this eye-opening work, both the Tavistock network and the methods of brainwashing and psychological warfare are uncovered. With connections to U.S. research institutes, think tanks, and the drug industry, Tavistock has a large reach. Estulin says this conspiracy is real, who is behind it, what its final objectives are, and how we can stop them. Softcover, 239 pages, $25 plus $4 S&H inside the U.S.

AMERIGEDDON

AMERIGEDDON has been described as “the movie the establishment doesn’t want you to see.” Showing what happens when a not-so-future U.S. government conspires with the United Nations to stage a false-flag attack on the energy grid, AMERIGEDDON depicts a country ruled by martial law in which citizens are stripped of their constitutional rights and their guns. A group of patriots fight back and tries to rescue the country from chaos. The film illustrates a dystopian future all patriots must guard against and is a call to action to preserve gun rights and stop executive rule by fiat. Director Mike Norris, son of actor Chuck Norris, says, “The fact that a recent poll showed a majority of Americans are enraged with the federal government points to a frenzy of unrest with the dictatorial way in which our country has been run.” DVD, 90 minutes, $20.

NEW WORLD ORDER: The Conspiracy To Rule Your Mind

Discover how the ruling elite have established global domination and the ability to affect the thoughts, decisions, and worldview of human beings across the globe by systematically infiltrating the media, academia, industry, military, and political factions under the guise of upholding democracy. It’s a global brainwashing of unprecedented proportions—possibly the biggest conspiracy of all! DVD, 180 minutes, $20.

CONSPIRACIES OF THE ANCIENT WORLD: The Secret Knowledge of Modern Rulers

This comprehensive film contains decades of intense research from some of the world's leading authors on ancient mysteries. International bestselling author Robert Bauval reveals his research into the hidden legacy of ancient Egypt. Almost everything we once believed about the origins of our civilization is challenged with a startling revelation. Philip Gardiner is a leading authority on serpent worship and has explored mysteries around the world. He exposes the biggest religious cover-up in history as he provides evidence for a worldwide annihilation of serpent worshiping practices. Explore the fascinating secrets brought back by the infamous Knight's Templar and the truth at the heart of secret societies. DVD, 200 minutes, $20.

CONSPIRACY THEORIES: Big Brother's Sinister Plot to Dominate Mankind

Are we being controlled from the very moment we are born until the time of our death? Or, is it time to put a stop to the ever encroaching and invasive conspiracies upon our minds and our lives? Richard Wilson, author of Don't Get Fooled Again, talks about his work to debunk conspiracy theories and conspiracy theorists. Which ones can he debunk? Which ones stand the test? Also, Phil Booth explains his campaign against mandatory ID cards. Together they speak about conspiracy theories and theorists. An interesting angle on conspiracy research—one might say a “counterpoint”—we thought AFP readers would be interested in testing for themselves. Featuring: Nick Margerrison, Phil Booth and Richard Wilson. DVD, 48 minutes, $20.

CONSPIRACY OF LIES: Flight 370 To 911

Since 9/11, our nation's police appear more like a military force than officers of the peace. We have seen the creation of Homeland Security, the TSA and the Patriot Act, all as a result of this one event, yet no one can explain why Building 7, which was not hit by a plane, collapsed along with the Twin Towers. We have now discovered the NSA can and does spy on every American citizen and we only need the national media to see that many of the New World Order plans are already in place. Col. Philip Corso on his deathbed claimed that the military had indeed reverse-engineered alien spacecraft and that he was responsible for disseminating the technology into the military-industrial complex. He also claimed he was aware of a secretive UFO controlling committee made up primarily of very high-ranking military officers and intelligence people. His nickname for this group was “The Unholy Thirteen.” Are we living under a New World Order? Look around. It seems it's only a short matter of time until all of the control levers are put in place. DVD, 60 minutes, $15.

Coconut Oil Unjustly Attacked

• Mainstream medical monopoly waging war of lies on saturated fats

By James Spounias

A recent American Heart Association (AHA) “presidential advisory,” posing as science, blasted coconut oil as part of a larger attack on saturated fats. The advisory was published in the association’s journal, Circulation, in June.

The topic of coconut oil’s benefits was sparked in the 1990s by Tom Valentine, host of “Radio Free America,” in interviews with Dr. Mary Enig, who explained how coconut oil was maligned.

Dr. Enig, a founding board member and later vice president of the Weston A. Price Foundation, brought to light the dangers of man-made trans-fatty acids (hydrogenated oils), a blight on American health that is still abundant and “legal” in America’s food supply.

Valentine was never credited for his daring reporting, likely because Liberty Lobby, Radio Free America’s sponsor, was blacklisted as a source of news long before the issue of so-called fake news became part of the national conversation.

The AHA admitted in its recent advisory that there are no studies directly indicting coconut oil: “Clinical trials that compared direct effects on CVD (cardiovascular disease) of coconut oil and other dietary oils have not been reported.”

So, why the fuss?

The AHA cherry-picked four studies to support the wrong-headed conclusion that saturated fats increase cholesterol levels, which in turn increase cardiovascular disease. The selected studies are problematic.

For instance, the study with the largest number of participants (skewing results) was not a randomized control trial, and it involved hospital patients who were being treated with antipsychotic medications, which were later found to increase heart disease.

Studies that support the idea that saturated fats are not implicated in heart disease or may be beneficial for heart health and cancer prevention were excluded.

Many factors impair cardiovascular health, such as hydrogenated fats, fluoridated water, and many prescription drugs, particularly by causing inflammation.

The hydrogenation issue is the elephant in the room, so to speak. As Dr. Enig wrote in 2009, many of the studies used to blame coconut oil for cardiovascular ill-health were done using hydrogenated coconut oil.

Dr. Enig wrote on “WestonPrice.org” that “saturated fats do not clog arteries, whether they are the short- and medium-chain type in coconut oil or the longer-chain fatty acids in beef, cream, and cheese.”

People should avoid man-made fats and instead consume fats from Mother Nature.

Even The New York Times on March 1, 2011 confirmed what Dr. Enig wrote by quoting Thomas Brenna, professor of science at Cornell University: “Most of the studies involving coconut oil were done with partially hydrogenated coconut oil, which researchers used because they needed to raise the cholesterol levels of their rabbits in order to collect certain data.” Dr. Brenna explained, “Virgin coconut oil, which has not been chemically treated, is a different thing in terms of a health-risk perspective. And maybe it isn’t so bad for you after all.”

Yes, you read that correctly: Even The New York Times wrote that hydrogenated oils were used to raise cholesterol levels.

The tepid conclusion, “isn’t so bad for you after all,” doesn’t go nearly far enough, though. Coconut oil’s benefits include its powerful antibacterial and anti-microbial properties, as well as the fact it is used by the body for a solid source of “energy” rather than storage.

Dr. Enig pointed out that flawed coconut oil studies didn’t involve only the cholesterol/heart disease fallacy, but included the area of cognitive function as well. Dr. Enig wrote, “It is important to explain why so many animal studies get negative results for coconut oil. The coconut oil used in laboratory studies is usually fully hydrogenated coconut oil. The process of full hydrogenation gets rid of all the unsaturated fatty acids in coconut oil.

“Researchers began using fully hydrogenated coconut oil to study the effects of essential fatty acid (EFA) deficiency. They used coconut oil because it is the only fat that can be fully hydrogenated and still be soft enough for rats to eat. The poor results obtained in these studies, such as mental impairment, are due to EFA deficiency and not the fault of the saturated fats in coconut oil. It is extremely deceitful for commentators to blame coconut oil in studies such as these, as they often do.”

Coconuts and coconut oil have been used for thousands of years in native diets without any indication that coconut oil contributes to heart (or other) disease. In fact, population studies have shown less cardiovascular insult in those who consumed coconut and other tropical oils.

In this book, Sally Fallon Morell explains the science behind the next movement in the wellness world—healthy fats. Nourishing Fats supports and expands upon the growing scientific consensus that a diet rich in good fats is the key to optimum health, and the basis of a sustainable, long-term diet. Here she shows why animal fats are vital for fighting infertility, depression, and chronic disease, and offers easy solutions for adding these essential fats back into your diet. Softcover, 272 pages, $25 plus $4 S&H in the U.S. from AFP, 16000 Trade Zone Avenue, Unit 406, Upper Marlboro, MD 20774.

In the 20th century, polyunsaturated vegetable oils became an industry favorite, and science was “bought” to attack saturated fats to favor certain vegetable oil interests.

AHA scientists are not stupid people, but rather part of an organized movement to keep people misinformed enough to not deeply question our food supply and pharmaceutical interventions. There’s pushback, though. Truth will win out. ★

Neocons Ramp Up Anti-Iran War Talk

• Republican stalwarts Gingrich, Bolton, Giuliani insist Persian regime change necessary

By Patrick J. Buchanan

“Iran must be free. The dictatorship must be destroyed. Containment is appeasement and appeasement is surrender.” Thus does our Churchill, Newt Gingrich, dismiss, in dealing with Iran, the policy of containment crafted by George Kennan and pursued by nine U.S. presidents to bloodless victory in the Cold War.

Why is containment surrender? “Because freedom is threatened everywhere so long as this dictatorship stays in power,” says Gingrich.

But how is our freedom threatened by a regime with 3% of our GDP that has been around since Jimmy Carter was president?

Fortunately, Gingrich has found a leader to bring down the Iranian regime and ensure the freedom of mankind. “In our country that was George Washington and . . . the Marquis de Lafayette. In Italy it was Garibaldi,” says Gingrich.

Whom has he found to rival Washington and Garibaldi? Says Gingrich, “Maryam Rajavi.” Who is she? The leader of the National Council of Resistance of Iran (NCRI), or Mujahedeen-e-Khalq, which opposed the shah, broke with the old ayatollah, collaborated with Saddam Hussein, and, until 2012, was designated a terrorist organization by the U.S. Department of State.

At the NCRI conference in Paris in July where Gingrich spoke, and the speaking fees were reportedly excellent, John Bolton and Rudy Giuliani were also on hand.

Calling Iran’s twice-elected President Hassan Rouhani “a violent, vicious murderer,” Giuliani said, “The time has come for regime change.”

Bolton followed suit. “Tehran is not merely a nuclear weapons threat, it is not merely a terrorist threat, it is a conventional threat to everybody in the region,” he said. Hence, “the declared policy of the United States of America should be the overthrow of the mullahs’ regime in Tehran.” We will all celebrate in Tehran in 2019, Bolton assured the NCRI faithful.

Good luck. Yet, as The New York Times said recently, all this talk, echoed all over this capital, is driving us straight toward war. “A drumbeat of provocative words, outright threats and actions—from President Trump and some of his top aides as well as Sunni Arab leaders and American activists—is raising tensions that could lead to armed conflict with Iran.”

Is this what America wants or needs—a new Mideast war against a country three times the size of Iraq? After Afghanistan, Iraq, Libya, Syria, and Yemen, would America and the world be well served by a war with Iran that could explode into a Sunni-Shiite religious war across the Middle East?

Bolton calls Iran “a nuclear weapons threat.”

American warmongers have already chosen Maryam Rajavi as their choice for leader of Iran.

“Neocons, the Persian Gulf states and Israel are all pushing for an all-out war with the Iranians.”

But in 2007, all 17 U.S. intelligence agencies declared with high confidence Iran had no nuclear weapons program. They stated this again in 2011. Under the nuclear deal, Iran exported almost all of its uranium, stopped enriching to 20%, shut down thousands of centrifuges, poured concrete into the core of its heavy water reactor, and allows UN inspectors to crawl all over every facility.

Is Iran, despite all this, operating a secret nuclear weapons program? Or is this War Party propaganda meant to drag us into another Mideast war?

To ascertain the truth, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee should call the heads of the CIA and DIA, and the director of national intelligence, to testify in open session.

We are told we are menaced also by a Shiite crescent rising and stretching from Beirut to Damascus, Baghdad, and Tehran.

And who created this Shiite crescent?

It was George W. Bush who ordered the Sunni regime of Saddam overthrown, delivering Iraq to its Shiite majority. It was Israel whose invasion and occupation of Lebanon from 1982 to 2000 gave birth to the Shiite resistance now known as Hezbollah.

As for Bashar Assad in Syria, his father sent troops to fight alongside Americans in the Gulf War.

The ayatollah’s regime, the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps, and the Basij militia are deeply hostile to this country. But Iran does not want war with the United States—for the best of reasons. Iran would be smashed like Iraq, and its inevitable rise, as the largest and most advanced country on the Persian Gulf, would be aborted.

Moreover, we have interests in common: peace in the Persian Gulf, from which Iran’s oil flows and without which Iran cannot grow, as Rouhani intends, by deepening Iran’s ties to Europe and the advanced world.

And we have enemies in common: the Islamic State (ISIS), al Qaeda and all the Sunni terrorists whose wildest dream is to see their American enemies fight their Shiite enemies.

Who else wants a U.S. war with Iran, besides ISIS?

Unfortunately, their number is legion: Saudis, Israelis, neocons and their think tanks, websites and magazines, hawks in both parties on Capitol Hill, democracy crusaders, and many in the Pentagon who want to deliver payback for what the Iranian-backed Shiite militias did to us in Iraq.

President Trump is key. If he does the War Party’s bidding, that will be his legacy, as the Iraq War is the legacy of George W. Bush. ★

“Without freedom of thought, there can be no such thing as wisdom; and no such thing as public liberty, without freedom of speech.”

—BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

Is free speech in America dead? It could be if we stand around and do nothing. Recently AFP had nearly every form of electronic payment taken away by the Big Banks in an attempt to silence us. But, as Mark Twain once quipped, “Reports of [our] demise are greatly exaggerated.” And, to quote another great American, Thomas Paine, “These are the times that try men’s souls.”

But enough of the quotes. Just know that, no matter what the billion-dollar powerbrokers do to murder AMERICAN FREE PRESS, the truth cannot be silenced, and neither will we.

Those bonus-sucking executives and ultra-rich anti-American pressure groups behind the attempts to shut down AFP will fail. We know they will fail because we have something that they don’t have on their side: the truth.

As long as we draw breath, the staff of AMERICAN FREE PRESS will not give up our mission to counter the lies and misinformation of the controlled corporate media.

But the battle will be tough. We know that.

Luckily, we have a secret weapon: our fellow Americans.

Even now, people whom we don’t know but who have heard about the outrageous financial attacks on AFP have called to offer us words of unwavering support.

But this time, words will not be enough.

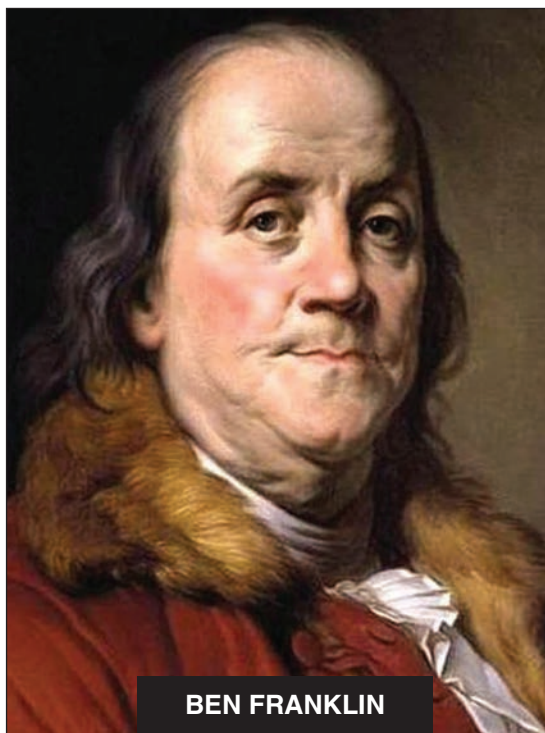

AFP continues to need financial help from those who understand that we are the largest of the remaining “real news” newspapers. It’s why we are being targeted. Can you imagine a world without AFP? Who would fill the void? Could they be trusted? Will some government front group emerge to replace AFP if it falters?

We hope never to see that day.

And we won’t have to if average Americans continue to assist our efforts with cash donations and street-level support. We need that help more than ever. And America deserves an independent media. AFP is more than a newspaper. It is the strongest, loudest, independent voice for the American middle class.

Please use the form at right to help in any way you can. But please use cash, check or U.S. money order. Our credit card processor ditched us because we were too politically incorrect!

Let’s show the enemies of free speech that they have underestimated your love of our God-given right to say and think what we please. Rest assured. There are thousands more like you out there—people unwilling to allow freedom of speech to die without a fight.

But the doctor says that free speech in America is on life support. We believe it can be saved if enough people come to understand the importance of this moment in time in American history. Never before in our past have we seen so many books “burned” and so many people with alternative viewpoints persecuted and harassed with the goal of silencing them.

Should AFP be run out of business by the compliant minions of the deep state, one of this nation’s great defenders of free speech would be muzzled, never to appear again, in print or the Internet. And that, my friends, would be a crime of historic proportions.

We have a plan, but we need your help. Please see the form at right to find out how you can help us weather this all-out assault by the vicious powerbrokers and well-heeled pressure groups threatened by open discussion of their un-American agendas.

Sincerely,

Paul Angel
AFP Vice President
